Payment

Unless otherwise agreed in writing, all prices are based on an annual prepayment of the subscription service. The stated price is always exclusive of Danish VAT (moms), and the Danish VAT rate in force at any time is added to the invoice. Exceptions from this are regulated by EU and Danish VAT legislation.

Ordbogen reserves the right to regulate the price of Ordbogen's Products from one subscription period to the next.

Payment terms are 8 days net.

Non-payment or late payment

In case of non-payment or late payment, Ordbogen is entitled to charge interest on the amount due. The interest rate is 2.5% per month or part thereof, calculated from the due date. In case of non-payment or late payment, a reminder fee of DKK 100 will furthermore be charged for every reminder sent. In addition, a compensation charge will be added to the first reminder, cf. § 9a, subsection 3 of the Danish Overdue Payments Interest Act (Renteloven). The compensation charge currently amounts to DKK 310.00. No VAT (moms) is added to the compensation charge.

Right of Cancellation

Business agreements are not subject to the Danish Consumer Contracts Act (Forbrugerftaleloven), and business customers do not have a 14-day right of cancellation.

Termination

Business customers who wish to terminate the subscription, must terminate the subscription not later than 3 months before the end of the subscription period. The customer must also notify Ordbogen of reduction of the subscription not later than 3 months before the end of the subscription period.

The subscription must be terminated by written request to Ordbogen or by email at the address: business@ordbogen.com.

Complaints & Liability

Ordbogen is based on a dependable and thoroughly tested system where errors may occur in exceptional cases.

If errors or defects are ascertained, the customer must file a complaint in writing as soon as possible and no later than 8 days after the time at which the customer ascertained the error or defect.

If problems of a technical nature arise, Ordbogen is solely obligated to remedy the problem. The customer cannot claim damages or any other kind of compensation for the time elapsed from the occurrence of the error or defect until the time at which the problem is remedied.

If the problem is the result of incorrect use of hardware or software, Ordbogen reserves the right to invoice the work done, in accordance with the prices prevailing within the trade. If Ordbogen offers repairs or remediation of the defect, or replacement with similar substitutable services, the customer is not entitled to terminate the contract or to claim any kind of damages or reduction. Ordbogen is without liability for any delay as a result of the remediation or replacement.

Ordbogen is in no case liable to be called to account for loss or damages, attributable to the use of Ordbogen's Products – be it directly or indirectly. The customer must indemnify Ordbogen to the extent that Ordbogen should incur liability for such loss or damages.

Misuse

Misuse of licence.

Usernames and passwords are to be construed as confidential information and may exclusively be utilised for one's personal (internal) use. If Ordbogen ascertains that a misuse of username and password has occurred, the customer must pay a contractual penalty of DKK 5,000 per breach. If the misuse consists of maintaining a condition contrary to the agreement between the parties, each day or part thereof is considered one new breach with the consequential obligation to pay a contractual penalty of DKK 5,000 for every day or part thereof. No distinction is made between non-business days and business days.

Misuse of network agreement.

By a network agreement is meant an agreement comprising an agreed number of licences. Each licence permits one natural person to make use of the network. If the number of natural persons with – direct or indirect – access to the network exceeds the number of licences, this is construed as misuse of the agreement, and in this situation, the customer will be obligated to pay a contractual penalty of DKK 5,000 per breach.

In the event of any kind of misuse, Ordbogen is entitled to claim damages according to the general rules of Danish law, if evidence can be provided of an economic loss greater than DKK 5,000 per breach or per day or part thereof.

Copyright and Other Rights

Any duplication, transfer or distribution, in full or in part, or any kind of storage or display of the contents to anyone other than the direct beneficiary may not occur without prior written consent from Ordbogen and potential third-party rightsholders of Ordbogen's Products.

Any material in or in relation to Ordbogen's Products – images, graphics, texts, examples, descriptions, hardware, program code, etc. – belongs to Ordbogen, and, likewise, all rights to domain, trademark, etc., also belong to Ordbogen.

If the customer violates the copyright, trademark rights, design rights or other rights, the customer is obligated to pay a contractual penalty of DKK 100,000 for each breach. If the violation consists of maintaining a particular condition contrary to the agreement between the parties, each day or part thereof is considered one new breach with the consequential obligation to pay a penalty of DKK 100,000 for every day or part thereof. No distinction is made between non-business days and business days.

Furthermore, Ordbogen is entitled to claim damages according to the general rules of Danish law, if evidence can be provided of an economic loss greater than DKK 100,000 per breach or per day or part thereof.

In addition to payment of contractual penalty, Ordbogen can demand the granting of an injunction without provision of security if Ordbogen ascertains that distribution or other transmission of Ordbogen's works is taking place.

Systematic/Automatic Extraction of Data

Searching or extracting – in part or in full – material from Ordbogen's Products and third-party rightsholders of Ordbogen's Products may not be carried out by automatic or systematic methods, and storage of Ordbogen's works or other material may not be carried out on media with the customer, the employees of the customer or the business partners of the customer, etc. Making use of material in Ordbogen's Products by automatic or systematic methods, may not take place without prior written consent from Ordbogen. Automatic or systematic extraction of material is construed as slavish copying of Ordbogen's works.

If the customer violates the stipulation on systematic/automatic extraction of data, the customer is obligated to pay a contractual penalty of DKK 100,000 for each breach. Each day or part thereof on which systematic/automatic extraction of data can be ascertained, is considered one new breach with the consequential obligation to pay a penalty of DKK 100,000 for every day or part thereof. No distinction is made between non-business days and business days.

In addition to payment of contractual penalty, Ordbogen can claim damages according to the general rules of Danish law.

In cases of gross violation, the violation will be reported to the police as a criminal offence.

In addition to payment of contractual penalty and police report, Ordbogen can demand the granting of an injunction without provision of security if Ordbogen ascertains that distribution or other transmission of Ordbogen's works is taking place.

Force Majeure

Any order received is subject to force majeure, including war, mobilisation, riots, natural disasters, strikes and lockouts, unavailability of supplies, fire, damage to Ordbogen's Products, production facilities of suppliers, change of law, regulations issued by an EU authority, or any other event which hinders or limits Ordbogen's ability to supply or perform the service in question.

In the case of force majeure, Ordbogen may either choose to terminate the contract – in part or in full – or to supply the agreed service as soon as the hindrance to normal supply has ceased to exist. In case of force majeure, Ordbogen cannot be held liable for any direct or indirect loss on part of the customer or the customers of the customer resulting from the failure to perform the service in question.

Applicable Law and Jurisdiction

Any dispute regarding the entering into, interpretation or implementation of these terms and conditions must be settled according to Danish law with Odense Court (Retten i Odense) as the court of first instance. If both parties so wish, a dispute may alternatively be settled by arbitration in Odense Court. In this situation, the President of Odense Court must designate the arbitrator. Danish law is to apply to the contractual relationship of the parties. The conflicts of laws rules of Danish private international law do not apply.
